Gifting a Lifetime of Travel

When I told my young cab driver I worked for RCI, he got very excited. "RCI is the best," he said. "My grandmother gave me her timeshare a few years ago. I've taken the most amazing trips! This year, I'm going to Spain. Thanks to her and RCI, I'm going places I thought I'd never be able to afford!"

What better gift can you give someone than a lifetime of travel? You know how much pleasure your timeshare ownership provided to you and your family over the years. So if you're thinking of selling your ownership interest, why not consider deeding it to a family member or friend? And don't forget to transfer your RCI subscribing membership as well.

Here's how to do it:

1. Contact your resort. They will arrange the paperwork for the transfer of ownership.
2. Contact RCI for a Membership Transfer Application that will step you through the process. There's $49 transfer fee. After enrollment, your beneficiary will receive a new member kit.

It's a gift that will never be forgotten!

Last Call: the newest benefit of belonging to RCI

Are you always on the lookout for a great vacation deal?

If so, you're going to love RCI's new online vacation clearance center – Last Call – at RCI.com! This is where you'll find RCI's best deals on last-minute vacation options. Last Call vacations have check-in dates of 45 days or less and you can scoop them up for a fraction of the regular cost. RCI Last Call vacations could come from anywhere RCI has affiliated resorts. Weeks fall into Last Call when someone cancels a vacation at the last minute or deposits late; when resorts provide RCI with last-minute space or when RCI has excess inventory that isn't likely to be confirmed on an exchange.

Rather than let these vacations go unused, RCI offers them to its subscribing members at eye-popping low rates. No matter which resort it is, where it's located, or what season it is, you can get it for a fixed price. Studio units are $99. One-bedroom units are $149. And two-bedroom units are only $199.
